Mr. Charles P. McKenzie

None of the hundreds of students who have passed under the watchful eye of this fine educator will ever forget his friendship, patient guidance, and inspiration. His untiring efforts on behalf of his students and his devotion to duty have provided an excellent example to each and every one of us who have been striving for these past four years to further ourselves intellectually. Moreover, his words of friendly encouragement have been a boon to many of us facing the problem of planning our future. It is with the utmost appreciation and greatest humility that we, the Class of 1963, dedicate our yearbook to Mr. Charles McKenzie.

To School

In Conference

The seniors of Ipswich High School have been fortunate enough this year to have with them Unal Mihciyazgan, an American Field Service student from Turkey. Unal, in addition to his school work, has found time to engage in numerous extra-curricular activities. He has served as an honorary member of the Student Council, has participated in cross country and in wrestling, and acted in the senior play. Unal's amiability and sense of humor have gained many friends for him here — especially among the fairer sex. We will all remember him as our friend, and we certainly hope that he has enjoyed his stay at Ipswich.

Class History

Linda O'Neill

"Our deed follow us, and what we have been makes us what we are."

Dykes

September 1959 marked the beginning of four wonderful years at Ipswich High School. We shared the usual hazards of all Freshmen classes, but, undaunted, we miraculously survived confusing schedules, locker combinations, new teachers, and that long cafeteria line. We also agreed unanimously that rising at six o'clock to catch an early bus was no picnic!

Our class officers that year were Edward Smith, president; Sally Hayes, vice-president; Patricia Carman, treasurer; Henry Cowles, secretary. Representatives to the Student Council were Connie Karras, Robert Tobiasz, Jack Marshall, Peter Hull, and Edward Smith.

Many of us, I'm sure, remember the going-away party we had in honor of our science teacher, Mr. Cobbett, who certainly deserved something for putting up with all our arguments.

Miss Manzer's homeroom class enjoyed a good laugh the morning that she tried to give us an algebra test!

As the year progressed some of our classmates got a little too involved in activities as they discovered that unlucky Friday — November thirteenth — when we received our first report cards as high-schoolers.

Added highlights of our freshman year were an undefeated football team and a highly successful basketball season.

The days sped on quickly and soon after our popular Spring Dance we bade good-bye to books and school to enjoy a well-earned ten-week vacation.

We began our Sophomore year in the fall of 1961. Rested and glad to be back, we noted some changes in our class roster. Leslie Lake had left us, and Donna Johnson had joined us by that September.

One of our major undertakings that year was to learn the "correct" spelling of the word sophomore. Upon accomplishing that, we again selected class officers. Robert Tobiasz became our new president; Sally Hayes and Patty Garman retained their respective offices as vice-president and treasurer; Elaine Galanis was elected secretary. Elected to voice our opinions in the Student Council were Ben Alhowik, Nancy LeBoeuf, Connie Karras, John Mansfield, and Bob Tobiasz.

Again the corridor rang with the sounds of our parlez-ing in French and the typing students' familiar chant of a-s-d-f — j-k-l-;. This was the first year that Mr. Rogers issued his now-familiar warning "No short skirts!"

We hustled about our business and before we realized it June had again rolled around bringing our yearly outing to Crane's Beach. The fog was so dense that day that we could hardly tell where the water stopped and the sand began, but we made the most of it; and a good time was had by all — until the rains came!

We returned once again in September of 1961 as Juniors, — full-fledged upperclassmen at last! To lead our class during this eventful year we chose John Mansfield, president; Ben Alhowik, vice-president; Elaine Galanis, secretary; Patty Carman, treasurer. Student Council members were Peter McDade, Connie Karras, Linda O'Neill, John Mansfield, and Jack Marshall, who also achieved the additional honor of being named Council president.

Upon investigation, we learned that our class roster had again been altered by the arrival of Jackson Garfield and Cynthia Nye and the departure of Lucinda Newton, Pamela Wilson, David Comeau, Michael Lewis, George Cokorogianis, and Steven Kopec.

Many things happened that year. Our shiny new class rings were distributed in October: John Mansfield and Al Rouff were elected co-captains of the football team: Mr. Edward Kennedy spoke to us at an assembly. Few of us in Mr. McKenna's U.S. History class will forget the day we made our television debut. Many of our classmates, having successfully completed Mr. Roundy's driver education course, finally obtained their licenses. Last, but not least, this year goes down in our class history as being the year the Paul Provost discovered the secret to success in spelling — memorizing.

Springtime came and on its heels came our Junior Prom. It was a memorable night for all. The auditorium was magically transformed by our decorating committee into an "Oriental Fantasy." Sally Wanzer and Phil Burridge were our king and queen. After an evening of dancing, we enjoyed a delicious meal at the Lakeside Inn. It was certainly an evening to remember, and fortunately, at the suggestion of Mr. Rogers, some silverware was returned to the Lakeside within the week.

Tiphany Medding was our representative to Girls' State, and Robert Tobiasz and Richard Haasnoot to Boys' State.

Members selected for the National Honor Society were tapped at assembly according to tradition. They were Robert Tobiasz, Jean Hammersley, and Brigita Kreismanis.

Robert Tobiasz and Brigita Kreismanis were awarded the D.A.R. award for excellence in history; and Bob received, as an additional honor, the Harvard Book Award.

When the school year reached its conclusion, we went our separate ways, even then eagerly anticipating our return in the fall as Seniors!

In September, 1962, began the final chapter in our scrapbook of high school memories; the beginning of the end of twelve years of study and preparation for the years that lie ahead. To guide the class this year we chose John Mansfield, president; Jack Marshall, vice-president; Sally Hayes, secretary; Patty Carman, treasurer. The Student Council representatives elected were Connie Karras, Jack Marshall, Peter McDade, John Mansfield, and Peter Hull.

Somehow, with the realization of graduation and subsequent parting upon us, our class became more closely knit than ever before. Over sixty percent of the class participated in our production of Our Town, which proved to be the most successful senior play in many years. For some reason, Mr. Blake didn't look too happy when the entire cast "dropped in" on him after the first night's performance.

We noticed a lack of spirit in the school and decided to mend matters. The results of our endeavors were overwhelming. Enthusiasm was so great that we almost brought down the ceiling at the pre-Thanksgiving Day rally!

Time rushed by too rapidly as we noted the class list did not include the names of Joanne Slys, Joanne Poor, Jack Wells, and Richard Seigfried. We welcomed Peter Tilton and Walter Kasarda into our ranks, however. A wonderful addition to the class was Unal Mihiyazgan, an exchange student from Turkey. We hope he has enjoyed his stay in our country as much as we have enjoyed being able to make his visit possible.

Since staff members for The Tiger had been elected in June, there remained only the choice of a class photographer to get the many committees working on the various phases in putting the book together for publication.

College Boards were a necessary evil for many of us, along with all the other red-tape involved in college applications. Our Christmas dinner and party of December 21st were great successes. Mr. Blake was simply too overwhelmed to speak when he opened his Christmas present. The tall, tall tree that the boys got "the old-fashioned way" was a big hit. Sally Hayes was selected for the D.A.R. Good Citizenship Award. John Mansfield was chosen as our most valuable football player by the coaches of our opposing teams.

Ben Alhowik and Bob Tobiasz are our basketball co-captains this year and we all hope for a successful season.

We are looking forward with mixed feelings to such events as Class Day, the Senior Reception and, ultimately, Commencement.

As the last high school class to graduate from this building, we wish to call attention to the many fine citizens its faculty and classrooms have produced. We have a justifiable pride in our school, faculty, advisers, and town, and we hope to be numbered among these citizens, wherever our individual talents may lead us.

Gifts to the Girls

By Stanley Trocki
Edward Smith

While working in the flats one night;
Our eyes beheld an awesome sight:
A clam's from below began to rise
Bringing each time a wonderful surprise;

We brought them here, with the clams consent,
To give each senior girl a present.

LINDA BABINEAU

Linda is smart and very quiet;
And very hard to hear:
This megaphone won't cause a riot;
Even when she is near.

PAULA CALLAHAN

Paula's a girl who loves to gab,
And hates to be alone:
So Paula, dear, here's a tab
To get a private telephone.

NANCY COMEAU

To Nancy who's always talking;
We give this nylon stocking:
This gift was hard to snag;
But try it on . . . just for a gag.

ELAINE GALANIS

Elaine dresses a la mode,
Each item fits just right;
To brighten her abode
We have this little light.

JEAN BLAKE

Working at the Strand we know
Jean admits people to the show:
As a boon to her position;
Goes this stool with a cushion.

PATRICIA CARMAN

Patty keeps the class treasure;
To know her is a pleasure;
To recall her classmates fickle
We have a brand new nickel.

CORALYN DAVIDSON

Coralyn's hair brings us to tears;
We hope she'll have it many years;
Here's a gift to keep it bright,
This beautiful red light.

SUSAN GILFORD

An avid mariner is she;
She's always riding on the sea;
We hope the water's always calm;
Because of this good-luck charm.

JEAN HAMMERSLEY

Jean was voted the best-dressed,
We know 'twas not in jest:
We want you to stay the same;
Take this on your road to fame.

LORRETTA HETNAR

Loretta works at the Five & Dime,
And, we know, is never on time:
So, here's a gift she'll like
A Faster-by-Master motor-bike.

PATRICIA HOVEY

For Pat, a nurses' assistant,
The call of duty is persistent.
As a nurse she'll make a hit
With this little nurse's kit.

DONNA JOHNSON

Donna is a mariner we know;
Off to sea she loves to go:
So that she'll remain afloat;
We have this shiny, red boat.

KATHLEEN KELLEHER

Kathy, whose laugh is so loud,
(A laugh of which she is proud)
Gets a muffler to quiet the tone,
And protect our funny-bone.

DIANE KMIEC

Diane helps people in need;
Here's a medal for good deeds:
Inscribed, a motto we believe:
Better to give than to receive.

BRIGITA KREISMANIS

To Brigita with hair so blonde,
A color of which we are fond:
We give this bottle of bleach:
To keep her pretty as a peach.

GERRY GORSKI

For Gerry who is going steady
With a chap named Freddie,
We have a gift ever ready —
Two pounds of colored confetti.

SALLY HAYES

To Sally who is cupid's ideal;
Goes a gift that will appeal;
A gift that we could not make,
Something for the wedding cake.

JOAN HOPPING

Joan enjoys chemistry;
It may one day earn her a fee:
So she will do the best she can,
Here's a snap of Mr. Desjardin.

MARY HUSSEY

Mary is so very shy,
We feel a sense of duty
To show this little lady
The ultimate in beauty.

CONNIE KARRAS

Connie, I say with shame,
Never hears her right name:
We put Constance on this scroll;
Answer when they call the role.

CAROL KINGSTON

Carol is full of spirit,
So full you almost hear it:
Every morn she'll greet the dawn;
While playing this little horn.

PATRICIA KNIGHT

Patty is very romantic;
And drives the boys frantic;
Here's a perfume really mild;
Aptly called "Drive 'em wild."

JEANNE LAMPROPOULOS

To Jeanne who deals with clams,
Which in Ipswich have many fans;
We give this gift with luck,
An anti-smelling clam truck.

NANCY LeBOEUF

Nancy is our class dancer;
How she does it, we can't answer,
But if she should run out of air,
We have this portable chair.

EDITH MacLEOD

Edie likes horses very much;
Here is one she can touch.
If riding lessons are too hard;
She can learn with little Bernard.

TIPHANY MEDDING

To Tippy who is so tasteful;
Goes a gift not too wasteful:
A gallon jug of Wildcat Juice,
To help her turn her charms loose.

JOANNE NASH

Joanne works for the dry cleaner,
We know because we've seen her;
This iron will help to keep
Those dresses pressed real neat.

BARBARA PIETROWICZ

For Barb who is about 6'4,
We have a gift she'll adore:
It's a pill, small and pink,
That will help her to shrink.

MARCIA SMOLENSKI

Marcia's best at shorthand;
This gift we think is grand:
A pencil that is sure to last
And she'll write twice as fast.

DONNA STREETER

Donna likes to have fun,
Making her sad cannot be done;
To keep her always happy,
Is this brew made by pappy.

ELLEN SURPITSKI

Ellen holds so many tricks;
She does things just for kicks:
This book has lessons in crime;
We hope Dad saves her, in time.

BARBARA LEE

Barb Lee is really a saint;
Her voice is ever so faint:
These wings will help you fly
To a place in heaven so high.

PAMELA McGEE

For a clever girl as she,
Our little friend, Pam McGee,
A testpaper she has never met,
With marks Stan and I always get.

BARBARA MORENCY

To Barb who's always giggling,
Whisperin', talkin', wigglin',
Goes a book we think is good,
Personal experiences of Dagwood.

LINDA O'NEIL

Linda O'Neil is quite a flirt,
And keeps us boys all alert:
We hope we're not too late
To put our names here for a date.

CAROL READY

To Carol who is small and sweet,
We give this little car-seat.
When she drives her automobile,
She can see beyond the wheel.

NANCY STEWART

Nancy's cheeks are ever so red;
We learned in a book we read
A pat of powder on the face
Any blush will replace.

GAIL STURTEVANT

Gail has a real great friend,
He may soon be her husband:
Bells will toll, people sing,
Then you wear this wedding ring.

MEREDITH SWEETSER

Meredith's name is Sweetser;
A girl couldn't be sweeter:
A token of our gallantry
Are sweets from Putman Pantry.

MARGARET TARR

Margaret helps the sick get better,
Surely earns a varsity letter.
Here is one duly inscribed
With thanks on the inside.

SALLY WANZER

Always smiling, always gay,
She never wears a frown;
No wonder Sally's photo
Is in this week's "Roto."

SUSAN WALSH

As a good librarian, no doubt

Sue hates to see her pals put out:
Here are some admittance slips
To facilitate their trips.

BLANCHE WRIGHT

Blanche is our class athlete;
Making goals is quite a feat:
To help her promote eugenics
Here's a book on calisthenics.

Back to the flats we now retreat;
We won't mind the mud on our feet:
For we have done our good deed for the day.
Good luck to you all as you go your way.

Gifts to the Boys

By Elaine Galanis
Patricia Knight

One bright and sunny day in May, when we were fishing in Ipswich Bay,
A worm we were about to hook until we saw his petrified look.

We cast the line without the worm, and saw the little fishes squirm;
We felt a tug: the line went taut: it must be a whale, we thought.

But what we landed on the deck was an ancient trunk from a pirate wreck,
Sealed, and covered with ocean weeds, We excitedly tugged until it was freed.

Here is our treasure — of jokes and toys:
A neat array of gifts for the senior boys.

BENJAMIN ALHOWIK

To Ben, captain of our team,
Victor on many a night,
We give a little scoreboard
To keep the score total right.

RICHARD ARNS

Dick, who often sits a-wishin'
That he could be out a-fishin',
Gets these worms who will not fail
To help catch a tremendous whale.

FRANK BLAKE

Frank may not be Fred Astaire,
But he is quite a twister,
For him, powder for his feet,
When he keeps that cha-cha beat.

EDWARD BUCKLEY

To keep Ed's car on the go
And not let the gas run low,
Here's a pump filled to the top,
The supply should never stop.

PHILIP BURRIDGE

To Phil who works at the A & P,
Very hard, it's plain to see,
When he's tired and needs a rest,
This chair will serve him best.

TIMOTHY CLANCY

For Tim, smart and witty,
We have this little ditty
So he can sing his blues away
And never have a gloomy day.

JAMES RAMEY

This present isn't very new
It's only a poor pool cue;
It does cost over a dime
Where Butch spends his time.

ALFRED ROUFF

To captain Rouff who is the most,
We give this little goal post
In memory of his football days
And of his well-deserved praise.

THOMAS SAROKA

Tom is our 'best dresser,'
This is easy to tell;
Here is a pants presser
To keep you looking well.

WILLIAM SHEREN

Bill drives near and far
In his little white car;
If he ever gets a flat
A spare will change all that.

P. Knight — E. Galanis

JOSEPH ROBISHAW

For Joe, we hope an unusual gift,
Will give him quite a lift;
A blank diploma should be fine
To get Linda's name on the line.

ARTHUR ROUSSEAU

Art has the grooviest cars,
Look as if they came from Mars;
We found some permanent glue
For repairs the whole year through.

LARRY SHEPPARD

To Larry, a key to the school,
Because he comes early, as a rule,
It was by some strange fate
If he ever strayed in late.

EDWARD SMITH

Eddie is very popular,
So this magnet's just the thing
To keep the friends he now has
And many more to bring.

GEOFFREY COLLINS

Rick is one of our quieter lads
And studying isn't his fad:
Here's a book with answers galore
So homework won't be a chore.

HENRY COWLES

To Henry, our class artist —
And also one of our smartest —
We give this artist's book
So his craft won't be over-looked.

DAVID DOWNS

Dave, we really must declare,
Has an appetite like a bear's:
Since your appetite is go great
HONEY will be pleasant to take.

RICHARD FESSENDEN

When Dick has that funny feeling
To fly high above the ceiling,
This'll make his dreams come true,
In anything he wishes to do.

JOHN GAUTHIER

John is an instigator,
And maybe it's lots of fun;
Here is a tank, painted pink,
To remind you of Hamilton.

JAMES GRAFFUM

To Jim who has a gun collection
A gun we give, with one exception,
It will not kill, hurt, or stun
It's just a little toy pop-gun.

ROBERT HAZEN

Bob is always busy in class,
Hardly has time to look at a lass;
To him goes this bundle of papers
To keep up with the latest capers.

JOHN HOOKS

To John we give this little jar
To save money for his sports cars;
Remember to give us girls a ride,
So we can share your pride.

EVERETT COMEAU

Everett likes to work on a farm,
So here's something for the barn
Or mow the hay for animal feed:
A tractor he may often need.

CHARLES DAGNALL

Since Charlie lives far from town,
His hikes cover lots of ground;
A little car he'll surely like,
It's better than a bike.

RICHARD FAIRBANKS

Dick keeps his hair quite short;
He visits the barber shop a lot;
To be sure he'll look slick,
We offer this waffle stick.

HUBERT GASPER

Buddy works in a local store:
We have something he'll adore:
This 10¢ raise in hourly pay
Will make him happy and very gay.

MICHAEL GIANOPOULOS

Mike has great musical skill
His future may hold many a thrill.
To lead his orchestra on and on
We have for him a little baton.

RICHARD HAASNOOT

For Dick, a future weatherman,
When his school days are spent,
We have this weather balloon
So he can help Don Kent.

ROBERT HETNAR

Robert's quite a hot-rod fan,
Familiar with the racing ban,
He gets a ticket for speeding
Past signs he should be heeding.

PETER HULL

Chicky is always making a crack —
This muzzle will hold it back;
We hope this joke he won't shun
Since we mean it all in fun.

WALTER KASARDA

For Walt, who never says a word,
This mike will make him heard:
We hope it doesn't make much noise
To spoil his ever-present poise.

SCOTT KNOWLTON

A great scientist Scott will be
After his experiments with DDT:
A little rat will help his tests
When another needs a rest.

PHILIP LANG

To Phil goes a small spark plug
In place of some exotic drug;
Because he always mopes around
This will get him off the ground.

THOMAS LEONARD

Tommy's always on the go,
His "pep" and vim never run low:
We have for him a sporty car
For excitement, near and far.

JOHN MANSFIELD

John is surely an all-around guy,
A true friend, you will sigh:
This bag of kisses will be handy:
Too bad they're only candy.

PETER McDADE

Peter is quite a scholarly lad:
This gift should make him glad,
A perfect mate, matching in height,
To bring him great delight.

GORDON PLAYER

To Gordon, who we declare
Has a way with the ladies fair,
We give a wolf whistle to blow
In case his supply runs low.

DONALD PRESTON

Corky helps the local papers
By snapping all the latest capers;
Talent and wit are a mixture:
Hold it! you get the picture.

RONALD KELLIE

Nickels won't get Ronny far,
When he's traveling in his car;
Since gas is expensive today
These bills will go quite a way.

DAVID KRAKOWSKI

His job is not his one desire,
If Dave could, he would retire;
To sooth his dishpan hands,
Jergens will meet his demands.

JEFFREY LEMIRE

Jeff is always dreaming,
Or perhaps merely scheming,
Whatever it is we know
He'll rest easier on a pillow.

FRANK MAKAR

Frank is tops on our list
We'd like to give him a kiss:
But our advisors wouldn't let us:
So we'll just rate him A-1 plus.

JOHN MARSHALL

Jackie's done much for the school,
So our money went into a pool —
To get for him a special gavel,
His many problems to unravel.

EDWARD NAGUSZEWSKI

To Eddie, our class actor,
(Maybe an important factor)
This "Oscar" we present today
To help recall the Senior Play.

PETER PRESCOTT

A book for Pete, who loves beauty,
We feel it is our highest duty
He read about the opposite sex —
More fun than any school text.

PAUL PROVOST

Paul is surely worth his salt,
His many talents vary,
To help him spell "develop"
We have this dictionary.

DANIEL SULLIVAN

Danny is quite a lad,
In classes he is never bad;
He never seems to make a sound:
A hammer will change that around.

Gifts to the Boys . . .

ROBERT TOBIASZ

Bobby's got a lot of spirit,
At any rally you can hear it;
If to hoarseness he is prone
He can use this megaphone.

DONALD WARREN

Don's nickname is Tweet —
You must admit it's unique;
If he tends toward repetition,
A parakeet will be competition.

DAVID WILE

To Dave goes this little book
In which he can look and look
For all the lively party games,
Or list his girl-friends' names.

PETER TILTON

Pete's voice is never loud,

It is seldom heard in a crowd;
Here is a little microphone
To amplify your speaking tone.

STANLEY TROCKI

Stan was voted our best dancer;
No doubt, he's quite a prancer;
This pair of shoes he'll need
In any dance he intends to lead.

GEORGE TRUDEL

George, who likes to sing,
May one day be as great as Bing;
His voice will not grow weak
If he sprays with every squeak.

GEORGE SOTIROPOULOS

With Yogi who blushes just a bit,
This buffer is sure to make a hit;
It may tone the color down
When embarrassments abound.

Here, on the bottom of the trunk, is a note;
"Dear classmates, please take these gifts as a joke";
We've had some laughs, and now we say,
"Good luck," to our boys who'll soon be on their way.

Class Prophecy

Patty Carman — Ben Alhowik

Patty: Well, Ben, here we are at the 7,3000th showing of Our Town, produced on Broadway, starring our Dick Haasnoot. He has made quite a name for himself along with Sally Hayes, his leading lady.

Ben: Yes, I understand quite a few of our classmates have stayed to help with the play; Tip Medding and Carol Kingston are in charge of the costumes, and Linda Babineau is in charge of the make-up crew. Poor Chickie Hull was so intoxicated after the sixth straight show, that he passed out and the producer was forced to call in an understudy.

Patty: Ed Naguszewski owns the theater and runs it quite efficiently. Peter McDade is in charge of the custodial department, with the aid of Donna Johnson, his capable assistant. They make an excellent team.

Ben: Say, last week, while visiting Connie Karras' Pizza Palace in the heart of New York City, I stopped in at the Peppermint Lounge where Frank Blake is the official twist instructor, with his sister Jean as his assistant. Elaine Galanis makes a cute cigarette girl, and Don Preston is going wild taking pictures for the New York Times and its editor, Brigita Kreismanis.

Patty: You'll be interested to hear that Carole Ready owns Pines' Speedway, and every night, Everett Comeau and Ronnie Kellie battle it out for first prize. But just recently, Nancy Comeau took the title with a record of six miles in four seconds.

Ben: I bumped into Peter Tilton in Loretta Hetnar and Barb Morency's Country Store the other day. He was purchasing Dave Wile's new book, How to have Big Beautiful Blue Eyes, in Ten Easy Lessons.

Patty: In the scientific world, Scott Knowlton has sent thirty-nine of his rats to the moon. His next project is to send Jody Hopping to Venus. Paul Provost is an English professor at Jackson College; he majored in spelling. Jack Marshall is a professor at the University of Miami; he majored in bathing beauties.

Ben: Richard Arns is Game Warden back home. Dick Fessenden owns a boat yard; and plans to row to France the day after tomorrow to visit Ellen Surpitski who teaches English at the Sorbonne in Paris.

Patty: Phil Burridge, in charge of the Ipswich Teen Age Club, has reported only one case of delinquency in three hours. Larry Sheppard, a member of the registry department is in charge of speed control, and has reported only thirty-three offenses in one hour.

Ben: John Hooks, our class politician, has taken over the congress — as its chief page boy. Quite a few of our classmates are now helping with our government: Blanche Wright babysits for the President's children; Jane Gordon is chief horticulturist; Kathy Kelleher and Diane Kmiec are fashion consultants to the first lady.

Patty: Susan Guilford, Joanne Nash, and Pat Hovey have opened up a very ritzy beauty parlor on 59th Street, in Manhattan. Their receptionists are Donna Streeter and Cory Davidson.

Ben: Art Rousseau owns his own chain of garages now. Gail Sturtevant assists chief-mechanic Gerry Gorski. Art sells a new make of car designed by James Graf-fum with simonizing by Dick Fairbanks. Bill Sheren had been the test driver but just recently the company hired Jeanne Lampropolous because of racing skill.

Patty: Mike Gianopolous and Stan Trocki always were in inseparable pair. Even now, Mike, our Class Musician, plays his trumpet as he rides on Stanley's ice-cream truck.

Ben: While I was getting a hair-cut at Bob Hetnar's new barbershop the other day, I noticed the shop's new addition: a barbershop quartet made up of Pete Prescott, Frank Makar, and Ed Smith. The group was under the direction of their talented lead Phil Lang. Those boys always did have a taste for good music.

Patty: Patty Knight now holds the National Women's Wrestling title. Many people say she owes all her fame to her capable trainer and manager, Linda O'Neill.

Ben: Unal, our foreign exchange student of 1962-63, always was a lady-killer. As Turkish Ambassador to the United States, he quite frequently gets a chance to visit all the fair maidens he left behind in Ipswich.

Patty: Marcia Smolenski is secretary to Al Rouff, the new principal at I.H.S. Yes, when Mr. Rogers retired to the Riviera, he turned the office over to Al since he had had so much experience being there. Barb Pietrowicz is secretary to John Gauthier, the guidance director who gets all his guidance from Hubert Gaspar.

Ben: Gordon Player, the only millionaire from our class, is certainly doing well. He now controls a harem of at least 3,000. It seems that Robert Hazen, agent of an anonymous benefactor, just knocked at Gordon's door and gave him a check for a million dollars!

Patty: Gosh! I thought that was just a movie gag! And poor Sally Wanzer was practically resigned to riding the M.T.A. forever when she discovered she was in need of a nickel in order to get off at her destination. Luckily she remembered that her old classmate Meredith Sweetser was the engineer, and had Conductor Hammersley ask Merry to stop the train.

Ben: Susan Walsh and Barbara Lee are secretaries to the very prominent Joe Robinshaw who manufactures bathing suits, designed by Tom Leonard, and modeled by Henry Cowles. Pam McGee, the talented musician of our class, has her own band which includes Tim Clancy on the sousaphone, the flutaphone, and the telephone — all at the same time!

Patty: I read in the Ipswich Chronicle, owned and edited by Bob Tobiasz, that Jeff Lemire, our Class Dreamer, fell asleep the day after graduation and has been dreaming ever since!

P. Carman
B. Alhowik

Ben: James Ramey and Roger Thistlewood now own a night club. It's well known as the RA-RO. Very often they have guest stars such as the tantalizing troubadour, Audie Audell, otherwise known as our old friend George Trudel.

Patty: Yes, some of our classmates have kept things humming on the home front. While I was visiting MacLeod's Stables last week, I ran into Nancy Stewart who gives riding instructions. David Downes was there, in a corner, eating all the horses' carrots and enjoying watching David Krakowski taking riding lessons.

Ben: I read in the newspaper that when the water pipes froze at Don Warren's marble mansion, he called in Walter Kasarda who, with the aid of Paula Callahan, did a magnificent, though expensive, plumbing job.

Patty: Yes. I was in Ipswich during that cold spell. The temperature went 27° below zero. There were many casualties because of the cold: Mary Hussey's nose was frostbitten, and Danny Sullivan was complaining about a similar condition in his toes. But, thanks to Margaret Tarr, a Candy Striper at Ed Buckley's ultra modern clinic, everything was under control.

Ben: Oh, there's Tom Saroka! You remember what an ardent member of the I.H.S. wrestling squad he was. I hear that he has taken over Tarzan's role in the movies. Nancy LeBeouf plays his Jane, and John Mansfield, doing their chimpanzee Chita's role, makes it a real "home team."

Patty: I must try to see him later. It certainly has been nice discussing what the imps of the class of 1963 have been doing these past years, Ben. Now, we'd better get in to catch the last act of Our Town.

We can look back at our season with pride, for although I.H.S. didn't have a good record score-wise, our boys showed tremendous determination at every game and a spirit which other teams often lack.

The Class of 1963 wishes next year's team a good season and a hope that they will carry on the terrific spirit at I.H.S.

BASKETBALL 1962-1963

The basketball team of the 1962-1963 season will go down in Ipswich High School sports history as one of the truly great teams.

This team, plagued by early season injuries, lost three games, with key men out of action, which eliminated them for contention of the league championship.

This small, spirited team had to win its last eight games to qualify for the state-tech tournament. With tremendous pressure riding on each game, Ipswich won eight in a row, high-lighted by a 72-71 win over Class B powerhouse, Carmelite. This victory, according to Coach McKenna, was his greatest in seven years at Ipswich.

Ipswich, a definite underdog in the state tournament, became the talk of the North Shore with two upset wins over Dennis, Yarmouth, and Marshfield. Marshfield, the South Shore Champions sporting a 16-1 record, was one of the tournament favorites. A great team effort resulted in a 71-70 overtime win for Ipswich, now referred to as the "Cinderella" team of the state tournament.

The team worked efficiently as they upset opposing teams in the first rounds of the tournament. The loss of the semi-final game by one point was a disappointment but again proved the mettle of the players. They deserve the highest commendation for their sportsmanship and ability, and for the many exciting moments enjoyed by an enthusiastic student body.

Three seniors were the nucleus of this fine team. Co-Captain Bob Tobiasz, floor general, chosen for the all-star team, was one of the greatest passers in Ipswich High basketball history.

Henry Cowles was high scorer of the Cape Ann League averaging over 22 points per game. A tremendous all-around player, Henry scored 60 points in the first two tournament victories.

Ben Alhowik made the all-star team as a sophomore. An injury during his junior year kept him out of play that season. This year he has shown outstanding ability as a defensive player and rebounder, driver and passer. Although he was handicapped by a sprained thumb, Ben came up with three rebounds in the final minute of play in the first tournament win over Yarmouth.

Since all three are bound for college next year, we hope they will continue their good work on the basketball court.

Although the Girls' Basketball Team hasn't been as successful as the Boys' has this season, we were fortunate in having a fine coach. Mrs. Goodridge has given the girls much to look forward to. The Seniors wish the team the best of luck and hope that with the new school will come new scores, but never a change in our good sportsmanship.

Mrs. Goodridge has come to us this year from the Pingree Girls' School. She is very enthusiastic about the sport of field hockey and we know her fine coaching will be an asset to our relatively new field hockey team.
